Final Thoughts from the Executive Director

Success at McAdams comes in many ways for those that we serve. Some earn many credits in a short period of time, graduate early, or are maybe even the first in their household to graduate from High School. All of these are wonderful accomplishments and achievements. Then there is the youth who came to school gradually two or three times a week for half a day. For an entire school year that was all that their past trauma and anxiety allowed them to manage. Being at McAdams for less than a month, for the first time this youth has come to school five days in a row, and with the support of our caring staff, is finding themselves able to manage full days. Another success is the anti-social student who now has light in their eyes and is engaging with their peers in a healthy manner. Your support makes each and every one of these successes possible. We could not be more proud of the daily opportunities in which we get to celebrate with each of these youth who walk through the doors of McAdams.

McAdams was the grateful recipient of two grants that will help further our mission to embrace and educate society's neglected kids.
